INTRODUCTION

The Revenue Canada Summary Report is published yearly by The Yukon Government, Bureau of Statistics. Data presented were derived from the most current available statistics released by Revenue Canada.

Data in sections 1 and 3 were taken from an annual publication entitled, Revenue Canada Taxation Statistics. The information in this publication is based on a sample set of returns. Data in sections 2 and 4 were based on 100% coverage and were taken from Revenue Canada Detailed Locality Tables. The data in sections 5 and 6 represent a deflated version of sections 3 and 4, respectively. In some cases entries may not sum to marginal totals due to independent random rounding.

This report is subdivided into three main parts. Part A analyzes data from the 1986 tax year and compares the Yukon and Canada in Section 1 and highlights the Yukon in Section 2. Part B provides a time series analysis (1976-1986) highlighting the Yukon in Section 3 and selected Yukon communities in Section 4. Part C analyzes changes in real income between 1976 and 1986 in the Yukon (Section 5) and in selected Yukon communities (Section 6).

Data presented in Sections 5 and 6 are deflated to the base year 1976 using the 1986 Consumer Price Index. Income values are deflated to control for such extraneous factors as inflation, thereby, enabling a realistic comparison of average income over time.

Revenue Canada is the most comprehensive source of income data, released on a yearly basis, for the Yukon and its communities. The following report is an excellent source of data for policy makers evaluating income related topics.

PART A

SECTION 1 - YUKON AND CANADA (1986)

SECTION 2 - YUKON AND SELECTED COMMUNITIES (1986)

HIGHLIGHTS - SECTION 1

*The average income in the Yukon for 1986 ($21,611) was 9.1% higher than that for Canada ($19,816).

*The average income for males in the Yukon ($26,632) was 62.5% higher than for females ($16,390). Average income for males for Canada as a whole was 89.5% more than females.

*In 1986 business employees were the single largest occupation group in the Yukon (6,500) with an average income of $21,689 compared to $22,001 for Canada.

*The highest average income in 1986 was earned by the Professionals occupation group, with $31,774 for the Yukon and $53,589 for Canada as a whole.

*In 1986 the largest percentage of returns in both the Yukon (31.7%) and Canada (35.6%) are in the less than $10,000 category. The income distribution pattern for the Yukon is quite different than that for Canada. The Yukon pattern is characterized by fewer filers earning less than $30,000 and more earning greater than or equal to $30,000. For Canada the opposite pattern is true.

*In 1986 wages and salaries represented 79.7% of all income for the Yukon and 70.5% for Canada.

*Unemployment Insurance benefits represent the single largest component of transfer payments for the Yukon, contributing 4.6% to income, compared to 3.0% for Canada.

PART B

SECTION 3 - YUKON (1976-1986)

SECTION 4 - YUKON & SELECTED COMMUNITIES (1981-1986)

HIGHLIGHTS - SECTION 3

*For the period 1976-1986 the average income (All Returns) in the Yukon increased from $11,142 to $21,611. The average income (All Returns) for females increased from $7,671 to $16,390 while the average income (All Returns) for males increased from $13,435 to $26,632.

*The average income for pensioners showed the largest increase rising from $4,522 in 1976 to $11,904 in 1986 a 163% increase.

*In 1976, 6.1% of Taxable Returns in the Yukon were in the greater than or equal to $25,000 category, compared with 46.6% in 1986.

*Wages and salaries remained the dominant source of income for the Yukon for the period 1976-1986; however, its percentage of income dropped from 86.7% in 1976 to 79.7% in 1986. Investments marked the largest percentage point increase of (2.6%) rising from 2.7% of income in 1976 to 5.3% in 1986.

Note: Due to extraneous factors (i.e. inflation) increases in average income do not represent an increase in real income.
